Apparently the software is a UK version so is useless. When I contacted Dell support they said that it was too old and offered to sell me one with Windows 10 at a discount. Ive tried Windows 10 and wasnt able to use it. Im too old to try to learn another operating system so want Windows XP which I am familiar with.I am extremely grateful to the seller of this used laptop. First of all, the price was extremely good. It is still working as well now as the day I received it. This review for this computer is being brought to you from this computer.

What really blew me away was that the seller kept Microsoft Office on it. I cannot adequately express how grateful I am for this. Since purchasing it, there have been few days where i have not used it. I am so glad I made this purchase.Its cheap because its cheap but it also doesnt imply otherwise. Expect it to be best for streaming and personal use which doesnt include any kind of gaming, period.Not sure where it went. The computer worked perfectly right out of the box. I brought it as a replacement and put my old harddrive into the new machine. Every thing worked perfectly. All I had to do was download a driver for the WiFi. My previous D610 laptop had different WiFi driver. The seller did a great job of packaging the hardware so that when it was lost by USPS it would be too difficult to extract and replace with a nonworking unit. I was very relieved to see had well the equipment was packaged as status was completely missing for 5 days in USPS possession.I recieved the Dell Latitude D610 refurbished laptop 2 days sooner than the expected earliest delivery date. It was packed beautifully and in very good condition. Because I was unable to get the computer to hook up to my server I took it to a local computer repairman. He was able to get the laptop to connect to my server but said I would definely need more memory. I mostly needed this computer to use at my friends house as I spend alot of time there so I rarely need to use it without being plugged in to a wall outlet. On the two occasions that I used the battery I got about an hours worth of usage. This did not surprise me as it is an older computer and is not really a problem for my usual usage. Im not sure what this means, but so far nothing more drastic has happened. All in all I am very satisfied with this laptop. I have had it since May 1, 2014.But i do like the computer its a dell and i hope it lasts a long time. Its just the right size for me and light weight.

As far as far the condition its exactly what the seller said it was and im satisfied with it still looks good and not scratched up badly at all. And the seller gave me a 90 day guarantee,so a big thank you to the seller.Probably going to return, need more time to really look into this but so far not impressed.
